GRANGERS CELEBRATE GOLDEN JUBILEE

Grange Originated by O. H. Kelly in 1868 and Now Numbers 1,000,000

MEETING AT WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. Nov. 14.—Thousands of sturdy American farmers with their wives and daughters are the honored guests of the national capital this week on the occasion of the annual meeting and golden jubilee celebration of the National Grange. Patrons of Husbandry in whose ranks are enrolled more than a million of the most practical agricultural experts in the world. The meeting is to be devoted largely to the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization and at the several sessions a number of speakers of national prominence are to be heard.

The National Grange originated in the mind of O. H. Kelly, a man of New England birth, who went to Minnesota in his early manhood and became a farmer. In 1864 he was appointed a clerk in the department of agriculture in Washington.

In January, 1866, Mr. Kelly was commissioned by Isaac Newton, commissioner of agriculture, to visit the Southern states for the purpose of obtaining statistical and other information in regard to the condition of the south. While traveling in this capacity the thought of a secret society of agriculturists for the protection and advancement of their interests came to him.

Soon after returning to Washington he consulted several men with whom he was associated, and as a result of these investigations and consultations the basis of the organization was laid on December 4, 1867, with the following persons present who have since been known as the "Seven Founders of the Order": O. H. Kelly, William Saunders, Rev. A. B. Grosh, William M. Ireland, Rev. John Trimble, J. R. Thompson and F. M. McDowell. These men were, with but two exceptions, born upon a farm and were at that time holding positions in the agricultural, postoffice and treasury departments of the government. The officers chosen at this basic organization were William Saunders, master; J. R. Thompson, lecturer; William M. Ireland, treasurer, and O. H. Kelly, secretary.

The first subordinate grange regularly chartered was organized at Penedonia, N. Y., April 16, 1868. The first state grange established was in Minnesota, Feb. 22, 1869. The first meeting of the National grange as a delegate body was held at Georgetown, D. C., Jan. 8, 1873, with delegates present representing 11 states. The organization has been established in nearly every state of the union, there having been over 30,000 charters for subordinate granges issued. The total membership at the present time is not known because of the vast number that fail to pay annual dues, but it is estimated at considerably over 1,000,000.

Brazil Planning Preparedness in A Highly Practical Manner

No Longer a Theory With Big Southern Nation For She Has Gone In For Militarism.

By H. B. Robertson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 26.—By Mail—"Preparedness" as a theory, is no longer open to discussion in Brazil. The big southern Republic has gone in for "militarism", and she has gone in with enthusiasm.

Compulsory military service, established by a law passed by the congress of 1908, goes into effect December 1 this year, and if the results approach the predictions of the law's sponsors a million Brazilian men will be trained in arms and maneuvers within the next ten years. All able bodied men between the ages of 21 and 44 years of age are subject to the call to arms or liable to punishment as delinquents.

RUSSIAN SITUATION THE SAME

London, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—Baucourt-Su-Ancre fell today to the British in continuance of their drive against the German lines. It is north of Ancre Brook. The British captured 4,000 prisoners, many machine guns and much ammunition. General Haig also reported that the storming of Beaumont-Harnes has been completely successful. Nearly 8,000 prisoners have been taken in all according to the announcement today. The Germans have begun counter attacking one half mile north of Chieval on the south bank of Ancre Brook and fighting there is bitter. British reserves are rushing upon the immediate rear of the advance infantry for the first time since General Sackoe began his Russo-Romanian blow against Mackensen's extensive left wing which rests at Cernavoda on the Danube in the Douaumont region. The Russian war office reported the situation unchanged.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—A German war office statement this afternoon admitted the capture of Douaumont-Hamel and St. Pierre Division on the Somme front by British troops. Our stubborn resistance is responsible for less important losses the statement said.

Every woman suffrage state of the union showed a remarkable change in the presidential vote over that of eight years ago, according to the best figures for the 1916 contest. The eight suffrage states which have been admitted to the union since the Taft-Bryan contest showed remarkable reversal of form.

Washington, a bedrock Republican state, which went to woman suffrage in 1910 cut its Republican plurality from 52,000 in 1908 to less than 12,000 this year.

Oregon, giving women the suffrage in 1912, gave Taft a plurality of 24,000, and gave Hughes less than 8,000.

California, which let women vote

in 1911, has turned its Republican plurality of 86,000 to a Democratic plurality of 3,000 or more.

Nevada, giving suffrage in 1914, increased its Democratic plurality from 500 to 5,000.

Idaho, one of the old suffrage states having gone in in 1896, turned a Republican plurality of 20,000 into a Democratic plurality of 15,000 or more.

Montana, becoming a woman suffrage state in 1914, made the most remarkable change of all, turning a Republican plurality of about 3,000 into a Democratic plurality of 35,000 or more.

Wyoming, a suffrage state in 1890, changed from 6,000 Republican to 4,000 Democratic in a total vote of a little over 40,000.

Utah, the home of Reed Smoot, of the old guard, which gave women the suffrage in 1870, also showed a remarkable change, turning a Republican plurality of about 19,000 to a Democratic plurality of 22,000.

Arizona, becoming a suffrage state in 1912, gave a Democratic plurality of less than 2,000 five years ago, and a Democratic plurality of 7,000 this year.

Colorado, also another old suffrage state, having granted women the vote in 1893, made a most remarkable change. The Democratic plurality in 1908 was less than 3,000, but this year it is about 62,000.

Kansas, the home of the staunch Republican, where women got the vote in 1912, gave Taft a plurality of 36,000; she gave Wilson a plurality of 36,000.

In Illinois, where a million men voted in 1908, they gave the Republican candidate a plurality of 224,000; when a half million women were added, the Democratic candidate was beaten in 1916 by 165,000. If the women there had voted as did the men in 1908 and the men had also done the same, Mr. Hughes would have carried the state by about 340,000.

WILSON VICTORY DIDN'T ENTHUSE DUBOIS DEMS

Can Allen, John Rogers and John Pentz in Parade, but Fourth Man Unrecognized

CLEARFIELD DELEGATION OVER

The DuBois Courier ridicules the big celebration of the DuBois Democrats in the following article. A good sized crowd of Clearfield gentlemen went over the mountain to the busy third rate, (beg pardon, we mean class) city but they were all too proud to parade. Mulligan Leary was not there so there was no one not too proud to fight and come just naturally couldn't parade(?) Even Connolly, whose spirit is always buoyant and exuberant is very much depressed this morning.

"When is the parade going to come along," was the question asked last evening and even telephoned into this office. Reference was made to the promised Democratic celebration and was asked after three Ford's (including W. R.) a donkey, two bands, a drum corps, a float and about 100 youngsters had gone over the streets although it was hard for people to reach it that it was over so soon. It somewhat resembled the Hughes victory on Tuesday—did not last long.

We have not been informed officially just what was the matter, and pending the official count we refuse to make any estimate of the number in line. It was Democratic all right, because a well known citizen of DuBois stated afterward that he recognized Can Allen, John Rogers, and John Pentz, but he did not know the fourth man in the parade.

The announcement of the parade drew a large crowd to the main streets last evening and thousands of people crowded along the principal thoroughfares to watch the big pageantry. They experienced no difficulty in seeing it all, but owing to the fact that there were not sufficient in line to string up the banners, the inscriptions flashed by almost too rapidly to have them all read.

There was plenty of red fire, lots of racket, good band music and excitement for the youngsters and if the parade did not accomplish anything else it furnished the younger population with some wholesome amusement. And anyone who promotes the happiness of the youngsters of the community is deserving of things."

TOOK IN THE PARADE AT DUBOIS.

The following Clearfield Democrats attended the jollification parade at DuBois last night: Sheriff Ira McCloskey, D. B. McCarty, J. D. Connolly, H. D. Healey, Andrew Plutkowski, W. W. Waple, T. B. Reilly, W. J. Camper, John Bailey, Squire James Mulligan, John E. Toot, P. J. McGovern, Ray Fullington, Vincent Sharp, Wesley Beatty and many others. They made the trip over the mountains in automobiles and had a slippery sliding time getting back.

MURDER RESULT OF A TRIVIAL QUARREL

Trouble All Started Over Chickens Going to Neighbor's and Failing to Return

WOMAN MURDERED SPENCELY

Lindsay, Ont. Nov. 14.—As a result of a tragedy growing out of a trivial quarrel between neighboring families, Mrs. May Davis, a comely young married woman, is to be tried on a charge of first degree murder at the fall assizes which convened here today. Mrs. Davis is charged with killing Fred Spenceley in her home at Kinmount on Sept. 6 last.

The Davis and Spenceley families occupied neighboring houses at Kinmount. The trouble between the two families was of long standing. It was said that Spenceley's hens would go over into the Davis yard and never return. Then Spenceley's barn was burned several years ago. Mrs. Davis had, according to Mrs. Spenceley's allegation, previously made threats to burn the structure. Finally the trouble reached such a stage that both Davis and Spenceley were bound over to keep the peace. The difficulties were further complicated by Mrs. Spenceley accusing Mrs. Davis of being unduly intimate with Mr. Spenceley. On the day of the tragedy Spenceley visited the Davis home to talk over matters. Mrs. Spenceley heard a shot and rushing from her own home saw Mrs. Davis with a rifle in her hand and standing over Spenceley's prostrate body.

HEAVY FINES ARE IMPOSED

Amsterdam, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—Thirty thousand Belgians from Antwerp alone have been forced to leave their homes and work in German industrial plants, according to the issue of the Echebelge reaching here today. Many more laborers have come from Belgium since the over run of the German hordes after the outbreak of the war. A statement of the wreckage of homes, depredation by the Germans and the three decrees by the Teutonic government in an edict has been issued by Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium. According to the Cardinal a heavy fine for a term in prison is imposed if the Belgians refuse to work in German plants. A person not authorized by the Germans who gives work to another is liable to a heavy fine. The German military authorities are empowered to take all unemployed persons and force them to work.

Navy Plays Army in New York On Saturday, November 25th

Navy Has Not Scored Touchdown On Army Since Ben Douglass Fell Across Line in 1907.

By Hamilton

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Nov. 14.—When the Army and Navy football teams go into action for their annual meeting at the Polo Grounds on Nov. 25, there will be a goal besides victory for which the Navy probably will play a hard as for victory. Victory can come by drop-kicks, place-kicks, or safeties, but a touchdown is a touchdown, and the Navy hasn't put over one of that kind of scores on the Army since 1907 when Capt. Ben Douglass had the pleasure of falling over the Army goal line. The middie have a stronger scoring team this year than has represented the Annapolis school for some time, so it is reasonable to believe they will be able to put a dent in the Cadets' goal. They were equal to the task of tipping a close score against the powerful Pittsburgh eleven, and with this to go on it is hard to see how the army will be able to hold them entirely free from a touchdown.

Many a football star has had a chance to plant a football between the Army goal posts for the Navy since Douglass laid over that touchdown, but four classes have ambled their way through the school and out into their duties aboard Uncle Sam's battleships without seeing the Navy teams accomplish that touchdown.

PLAIN TRUTH.

We are indebted to the Mahaffey Times for the following articles which are true in the newspaper business all over this state:

"Several weeks ago the Times sent notices to delinquent subscribers informing them that it was necessary for them to pay up, if they failed to do this, we would place the account into the hands of the proper authorities for collection. Some did not heed the warning, the result was their accounts were handed over for collection. The collectors have sent out notices to these subscribers and we have received a few letters along the following lines.

Dear Sirs:

You have handed my name to the collector. Now I only ordered the paper for one year and after that year was up you did not stop it and I am not going to pay for it, so don't send the paper to me any longer.

Very truly yours,
Dis Honest.

In reply to this statement, we wish to inform the subscribers who are laboring under that delusion, seventy-five per cent. of our subscribers would consider it as an insult if we were to discontinue their paper at the expiration of the time.

They would accuse us of not wanting to trust them, swear they would never take the paper again and get into a very much agitated frame of mind. You can stop the paper if you wish but pay for what you have already received and benefitted by.

DOES FIRE PREVENTION PREVENT?

The recent widespread celebration of Fire Prevention Day (October 9th) throughout the United States gives point to the query as to whether fire prevention is really making good in actual results.

Here is a part of the answer. New York City, in 1915, had 1,010 fewer fires than in 1914, and its aggregate losses showed a decrease of $2,460,793 from those of 1914. Its per capita loss was $1.06 or $.32 less than was known before; its loss per fire was $140.58 less than the lowest previous record. These results are generally attributed to new York's fire prevention work.

Chicago has a Bureau of Fire Prevention and Public Safety with extensive activities. Translated into figures it appears that Chicago, in 1915, enjoyed a decrease of 1238 in the number of fires and of $906,605 in total fire losses as compared with 1914.

The above, however, are a few of the bright spots and represent but the merest beginning. It must never be overlooked that fire prevention is still confronted by an enormous task. Momentary enthusiasm because of reductions effected in a few cities is somewhat dampened by the reflection that 1915 saw the enormous total of $39,591,227 in the single item of dwelling house fires in the United States. Of this amount, $6,322,818, or $17,323 per day, is directly traceable to defective chimneys and flues—a cause which could have been ascertained and corrected.

Fire Prevention does prevent, but it never will be really successful until the public takes a hand.

INDIVIDUALITY—A DYNAMIC CHARM.

How all of us admire individuality? And how all of us desire people to recognize it in us. Yet, unless we naturally have this endowment, we will find it most difficult to acquire. Individuality, in reality, is a gift. We can, however, strive to attain a small portion of individuality by making certain things suggest us to our friends and acquaintances.

For instance, I never see a certain shade of blue without thinking of my friend, Ethel. She wears it very often and it has become her color. From her chiffon shirtwaists and evening dresses in winter to her linen garden frocks in summer, you find this blue predominating.

Her room is decorated and upholstered in a similar shade of ecru. Even her luncheon set is embroidered in Ross of that color.

I am sure if you will think of your friends, you will, in a number of cases, connect certain things with certain people. This is one form of individuality suggested.

Some people are fortunate enough to possess no small amount of this wonderful endowment. Their homes speak of it—even to the way flowers are placed in vases and books arranged upon the library table.

While most original people are the possessors of individuality of habits of expression and of thought, there is a wide difference in originality and individuality. The former is a definite equality. The latter is the more subtle in the way it affects one's impression of a person. Sometimes you are swayed by a person's characteristics without knowing why.

Try and cultivate an air of attractiveness. I know you will be glad when you find a suggestion of it in the response you evoke among your acquaintances. The secret of it is not so much in the WHAT you do, but in the HOW you do it.

I have said enough. During the next month or so just aim to cultivate an individuality, and see if you do not grow far more attractive in your nature than you have been before.

AUSTRALIA BACK IN THE RING.

Australia has re-appeared on the pugilistic map. The brilliant record of Les Darcy, the 21 year old middle weight, has shined the Antipodean back in the spotlight of the world's boxing affairs, after an absence of many years.

Now that Darcy has established himself as a world-beater, the folks "down under" have another name to add to their already long list of boxing notables, which comprise about a dozen names, as ever known, but Bill Flinders his first time pulled on a boxing glove. The last out over here when he took the coat of the Kangaroo boxers, from Peter at the hands of Tommy Burns in one Jackson, the heavyweight, down to young Grillo, featherweight, fought many battles in this country, and veteran followers of the ring will remember the brilliant bouts staged by some of the Antipodeans.

There was Jackson, the ebony-hued gladiator, of whom it was said he could defeat any heavyweight in the world. And only a little way behind the big negro were Frank Slavin and Hall and Dan Creedon. Fitzsimmons after cleaning up all the middleweights, went out of his weight division and defeated Jim Corbett for the heavy-weight crown. While all this the clever Australian and they will be and Creedon didn't measure up to Fitz as a fighter both carried the goods and held long records of consecutive good clashes.

The middleweight division was represented by Bob Fitzsimmons. Joining the "bright lights" he would have become king of both the Joe Goddard, also hailing from Australia.

Tom Tracy, George Dawson and Jim Burgess were the best of the Victorian welterweights. Headed by the featherweight division was Young MacFarlane, who was just about a Gliffo, often proclaimed the champion of the world. Among the boxers of the world, his name is well known. His victims have been many, but he was not one of the best. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion.

Other Kangaroo boxers who won praise for their sterling ability as fighters in this country were Tom Leedy, Billy McCarthy, Billy Smith, Arthur Walker, Tom Williams, Tim Haggerty, Otto Gripps, Billy Murphy and Hook Kyes.

With the passing of Fitzsimmons and Young Grillo, Australia dropped out of the big league of the champion boxers. An attempt at a "come-back" was made when they sent over Bill Sanders, after he had made quite a name for himself in the ring over here. An attempt at a "come-back" was made when they sent over Bill Sanders, after he had made quite a name for himself in the ring over here.

Squid quick finish as a champion-skip contender happened some ten years ago. Since then American boxers have been coming to Australia to show their wares, instead of the Australians coming here.

Whether America will have an opportunity to see Darcy at a very early date is problematical. It is said that he is headed for the army. If this is true there is a big chance that he may never be seen in the ring over here. Followers of boxing in this country have long had a desire to see the heavy-weight crown. While all this the clever Australian and they will be and Creedon didn't measure up to Fitz as a fighter both carried the goods and held long records of consecutive good clashes.

Darcy is a native of Australia and has just passed his twenty-first year. Up to two years ago he was apprenticed as a black smith. He made his ring debut in 1912 when he stopped Dave Depens in nine rounds. Later in the same year he scored his first knockout, Jimmie Dares being the victim.

The past three years Darcy has been putting him away just about a Gliffo, often proclaimed the champion of the world. Among the boxers of the world, his name is well known. His victims have been many, but he was not one of the best. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less Meat Also take Glass of Soda Before Eating Breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

thing choice in a pugilistic way. Jeff Smith and Fritz Holland won decisions over Darcy, but in later bouts both were defeated decisively by the Australian.

ANCHOR YOUR FARM

The Federal Geological Survey is authority for the statement that an average of ninety-five tons of soil and loose rock are washed into the ocean every year from every square mile of territory in the United States. The stupendous amount of land washed may be realized when it is taken into consideration that there are over 3,000,000 square miles of land in this country. This loss to the American farmer is gigantic as it is obvious that the soil carried away is top soil—the richest in plant food and humus.

VALUE AND RESULTS

I have yet to hear of an advertiser who has persistently, judiciously, and intelligently advertised for any considerable length of time, and has supported that advertising in the proper conduct of his business in other directions, who has not succeeded. Loss through advertising is largely due to inadequate support, indifference or useless extravagance. Your business, like your soil, must not be robbed. It is a law of nature that where we receive much, we must give something in return. Your soil will wear out if you do not fertilize and properly care for it. Your business will run down if you do not advertise and keep it in a healthy state of cultivation. It is activity that causes growth and development; in fact, it is activity that makes us strong. An active advertising campaign will make your business healthy and strong.—Frank B. White, Managing Editor, Agricultural Publishers' Association.

THE WORK OF THE BUREAU OF SOILS.

"The chief activities of the Bureau of Soils of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are the and survey, fertilizer investigations, and studies in soil physics and soil chemistry."—Alton Whitney, Chief of the Bureau of Soils, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"The influence of soils on topography on agriculture is great, and the general type and methods of farming are decided, including the equipment used, the method of plowing, the choice of crops, the method of fertilizing, the choice of the fertilizer applied. The size of the farms and the value of land and grain are determined by such subjects as these and many others."

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

MORE SHEEP FOR PENNSYLVANIA.

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Extension Service has adopted a definite program for increasing the sheep industry of the State. Extension representatives in 36 counties, with the co-operation of county farm bureaus, live stock associations, etc., will make a sheep survey in their counties, gathering statistics as to the number of flocks, the number of sheep in each flock, the breed, costs of maintenance, prices obtained for products sold, and profits. Articles will then be prepared giving the specific facts and figures relative to the industry in each county, and also concerning particular farms. Auto excursions will then be made to farms where special conditions will be studied. This program will aid materially in getting the sheep growers together for co-operative purposes in marketing both mutton and wool. It seems to be an excellent plan.

MAKING MONEY ON A SMALL FARM

Fifteen years ago George W. Shreiner of Singletown, Pennsylvania, inherited a worn-out 50-acre farm. Fences were neglected and down, the buildings were tumbling and the yields were extremely low. Fields have been doubled, good profits annually have been obtained and the farm made more valuable than ever before, by attention on the part of Mr. Shreiner to crop rotation, soil fertility and marketing. A new barn, remodeled outbuildings, improved house cement walks and new fences are among the results.

ENRICH THE SOIL.

"Enrich the soil to feed animals, rather than feed animals to enrich the soil," is the advice given by the Extension Division of Clemson College which points out the four steps necessary for increasing the fertility of the soil. The first step includes deep fall plowing, drainage, better seed-beds, and seeds, and more frequent shallow cultivation. Winter cover crops to be turned under in the spring are included in the second step. Diversification and rotation of crops is the third and the production of livestock the fourth step.

FARM PRODUCTS STILL SHOW RAPID INCREASE.

Prices of farm products continue to rise. Producers were being paid 27.6 per cent more on October 1 than a year ago, the Department of Agriculture announced. October 11, in its monthly statement of the level of prices on principal crops. That level increased 1.3 per cent during September compared with a decrease of about 2 per cent during that month in the last eight years. October 1, two years ago prices were 19.9 per cent lower than on that date this year and the average for the last eight years on October 1 was 23.8 per cent lower.—Farmers Home Journal.

COMPETITION FOR DEWEY HANES.

Dewey Hanes, champion corn grower of Ohio, is this year finding stiff competition in his own family, as his two brothers are also in the corn growing contest and are each hoping to secure the first prize as champion of the state. Dewey is confident, however, that he will again be state champion, although he is not sure that his 1916 yield will equal that of last year when he raised 153.4 bushels of corn on one acre.

There was quite an argument down at Summit tannery yesterday. One workman claimed of another that he owed him 98 cents for 28 years and demanded payment. Now it is claimed that the purchaser cannot recover because the party of the first part, scenting danger, had already applied for ex parte order in bankruptcy. The question now to be settled down there is who is the financial loser by the transaction.

CHAPTER 3 of "LIBERTY"

At the Opera House tomorrow Evening.

Liberty Horton, the American heiress, having escaped her abductors who are led by Lopez, rides toward the town of Discovery to warn the Americans there of the plot of the insurgents to attack the place. Lopez sends out several rebels who shoot and wound her, but the coming of some American soldiers from the camp frightened them away. She is placed in a hospital tent and when she recovers consciousness tells the American soldiers that the rebel chieftain, Alvirra, has 1,000 insurgents under his command and intends to attack the town of Discovery at once. A band of Texas Rangers give battle to the Lopez band and rout them. The military camp officers then try an operator at Discovery, but he fails to receive the warning. Alvirra and many thrilling scenes of carnage ensue, marked by the burning of houses of Americans, the wounding and slaying of many of the people there; but while the battle between the rebels and citizens is raging, the timely arrival of a large detachment of American soldiers results in the routing of the insurgents; they flee pell mell for their lives. Lopez, finally coming to a place of safety in his flight, berates his fellow bandits for their failure to withstand the attacks of the rangers. Liberty, saving recovered somewhat, is able to ride with an armed escort, to her father's hacienda, and there she seeks recreation during her recovery. Major Winston, one of the guardians of Liberty, gambles heavily and gives notes of his indebtedness of the total of $20,000. Jose Leon, the other Guardian of Liberty, has a son, Manuel, who desires to wed Liberty, and so the father and the son plot to use the gambling notes against Winston to try to force him to agree to the prospective marriage of Liberty and Manuel. Liberty, whose sweetheart is an Amer. Army officer, Captain Rutledge, confers with him, and they pledge affection to each other. Jose taunts Major Winston about his betrayal of his duty as a guardian in losing money belonging to Liberty, but the latter refuses to comply to Jose's demands.

COEDS SPEND MORE THAN LUSTY YOUTHS

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

What steps are necessary in vulcanizing casings? Must the casing always be removed from the wheel?

For vulcanizing casing cuts it is not always necessary to remove the tire from the wheel. Apply from one to three layers of cement, allowing each to dry. Fill the hole not quite level with the surface with scraps of Para rubber. The best results are obtained when casing repairs are slightly concave. If filled too full the rubber will expand and flow over on to the unpunctured surface in a thin film that will soon peel up and cause trouble. Moreover, the protruding plug will receive more than its share of hammering and will undoubtedly split open. Be sure when mending a sand pocket to stop the hole where the dirt entered, as it may be a foot away from the sand pocket.

After preparing the tube or casing and while waiting for it to dry screw the handle firmly into the vulcanizer; then, if mending a tube, stand the vulcanizer vertically on a bench, running board or floor and remove the casing chain and bolts from the tube plate. When repuncturing a casing turn the swivel plate so that the projection with the round hole is on the same side of vulcanizer as the handle. Clamp the plate in this position so that it cannot revolve and insert one chain bolt through round hole and attach thumb nut. Then take the vulcanizer in the left hand, place the curved side against the repair, using waxed paper between the vulcanizer and the repair, bring the chain around the felloe and hook the other bolt into the forked projection on the other side of the plate and then screw the vulcanizer firmly but not too tightly on the tire.

After the vulcanizer is in position for action remove the cylindrical lamp and, holding it at an angle of about forty-five degrees, pour the fuel on to it from the brass measure. If you use alcohol get the correct amount by plunging your finger over the lower hole and filling the measure until the fuel runs out of the upper hole.

Insert the lamp into the vulcanizer and ignite at the hole just above the lamp. The vulcanizer operates most satisfactorily, of course, if sheltered from drafts.

In exceptional cases, for instance, when vulcanizing a very deep casing cut or a tire that is at freezing temperature, a slightly additional amount of fuel, probably not over one-eighth inch, may be used to compensate for the extra heat required to bring the tire to normal temperature. But after a few operations your experience will make you the best judge as to quantity. On the other hand, when making several repairs in succession cool the vulcanizer after each one by immersing in water, and should the continued use of low grade fuel produce a sufficient deposit of soot in the vulcanizer to interfere with the draft clean the fuel.

Whatever has been done to the tire, whether in the garage or on the road, it will be necessary after the job has been completed to inflate it once more, and do not fall into the habit of a vast number of motorists of simply blowing it up and letting it go at that. Careless guesswork concerning the right amount of air in a tire is the cause of many troubles. Too little air in a tire causes rim cutting, breaking of the side walls, fabric separation and ruin for any make of pneumatic tire. Too much air makes the riding rough and thus defeats the very purpose of the pneumatic tire. The tire should always "give" a little under a load, but mere inspection or guesswork is not a reliable inflation test. Carry a pressure gauge and when inflating do so to the indicated number of pounds, or use a tire caliper, which gives you the correct inflation for any tire.

What would the crank shaft of an ordinary eight cylinder engine look like if all the cylinders were put in line? Is there any angle other than 180 degrees between the different crank pins?

The simplest way would be to have all the cranks in the same plane just like two four-cylinder crank shafts together. An arrangement with the cranks at ninety degrees would, however, be possible. The easiest way to explain it is to say that with eight cylinders in line you have the equivalent of two four-cylinder engines coupled together, and you can regard the first four cylinders as one engine and the second four as the other, or you can regard cylinders Nos. 1, 3, 5 and 7 as one four-cylinder engine and 2, 4, 6 and 8 as the other.

What is the best method of removing tar or tarry from my car? I recently had to drive twice a day for two weeks over a road freshly covered with it. The chassis is absolutely covered and the body not much better.

Soap and water used promptly will generally remove tar or tarry. It can also be softened by the application of butter or oleomargarine without damage to the varnish.

Another good solvent is cocoon butter, which is used in the theatrical profession for removing grease paint. This can be purchased in some drug stores and is a harmless solvent for all kinds of oil and grease as well as tar.

My car has always used too much cylinder oil. I recently had nonleaking packing rings applied, one in each piston, and a new set of rings applied, although the old ones were good and the cylinders are not worn a particle and the tool marks not defaced.

have tried various kinds of oil, but get no results. Can you suggest something that will prevent the oil from getting by the packing rings and fouling the spark plugs and the valves?

It is possible that the cylinders have been worn out of round or that the pistons are a bad fit in the cylinders. A good mechanic should be able to micrometer the pistons and cylinders and determine whether or not this is the trouble. If the cylinders are in good shape and the pistons are a sloppy fit the remedy is to fit oversize pistons. If the cylinders are scored to such an extent that the leakage you describe occurs the only remedy is re-boring of the cylinders and fitting of new pistons.

Can you give me a list of things which might cause a knock in a motor? Worn crank shaft bearings, worn connecting rod bearings, worn wrist pin bearings, pistons loose in the cylinders, broken piston pins, preignition caused by carbon deposits in cylinder head, the spark advanced too far, too rich a mixture, scored cylinders or loose motor supports.

My car has poor compression on all but one cylinder when cold, but does not show so much difference when hot. I have had the head off and ground the valves. I think it is in the gasket joint, as the old gasket showed black carbon streaks, especially between the cylinders. It has not the power it should have and has run only 2,200 miles. Would it help to put in two gaskets and shellac all of their sides or is there anything else that will make it hold?

Since the old gasket shows carbon streaks it is quite likely that you are right in your surmise that the car is losing power due to leakage. The new gaskets will shellac and may remedy the trouble; also, go over the intake manifold connections very carefully and be sure that there are no air leaks around these.

Please advise me as to the use of naphthalene or naphthalene with flakes in gasoline for increasing mileage and as a carbon remover. It has been recommended to use a teaspoonful to every five gallons of gasoline, and I am told that this substance is put up under many names and sold for that purpose. Please advise me as to its quality, and how does it work?

The use of naphthalene or, as it is commonly known, camphor, is not recommended in gasoline. As a matter of fact it will deposit as much carbon as it will remove and will result in a sooted engine. A simple experiment which will readily show you the carbon forming tendencies of camphor may be performed by simply holding a camphor or moth ball over an open flame. The carbon will leave the camphor in long, stringlike formations.

I understand that denatured alcohol and wood alcohol both mix completely with water. With a solution of 25 per cent alcohol and 75 per cent water in evaporating remain the same solution or will the alcohol evaporate more rapidly than the water so that the solution will have a smaller percentage of alcohol in it after about one-fourth of it has evaporated?

The alcohol will be almost entirely evaporated before the water diminishes appreciably, therefore after 25 per cent of your solution has evaporated what remains is almost entirely water, and the solution must be replenished with alcohol to give the desired effect.

Where the air is sweet and clean.

Grange Originated by O. H. Kelly in 1868 and Now Numbers 1,000,000

MEETING AT WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. Nov. 14.—Thousands of sturdy American farmers with their wives and daughters are the honored guests of the national capital this week on the occasion of the annual meeting and golden jubilee celebration of the National Grange. Patrons of Husbandry in whose ranks are enrolled more than a million of the most practical agricultural experts in the world. The meeting is to be devoted largely to the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization and at the several sessions a number of speakers of national prominence are to be heard.

The National Grange originated in the mind of O. H. Kelly, a man of New England birth, who went to Minnesota in his early manhood and became a farmer. In 1864 he was appointed a clerk in the department of agriculture in Washington.

In January, 1866, Mr. Kelly was commissioned by Isaac Newton, commissioner of agriculture, to visit the Southern states for the purpose of obtaining statistical and other information in regard to the condition of the south. While traveling in this capacity the thought of a secret society of agriculturists for the protection and advancement of their interests came to him.

Soon after returning to Washington he consulted several men with whom he was associated, and as a result of these investigations and consultations the basis of the organization was laid on December 4, 1867, with the following persons present who have since been known as the "Seven Founders of the Order": O. H. Kelly, William Saunders, Rev. A. B. Grosh, William M. Ireland, Rev. John Trimble, J. R. Thompson and F. M. McDowell. These men were, with but two exceptions, born upon a farm and were at that time holding positions in the agricultural, postoffice and treasury departments of the government. The officers chosen at this basic organization were William Saunders, master; J. R. Thompson, lecturer; William M. Ireland, treasurer, and O. H. Kelly, secretary.

The first subordinate grange regularly chartered was organized at Penedonia, N. Y., April 16, 1868. The first state grange established was in Minnesota, Feb. 22, 1869. The first meeting of the National grange as a delegate body was held at Georgetown, D. C., Jan. 8, 1873, with delegates present representing 11 states. The organization has been established in nearly every state of the union, there having been over 30,000 charters for subordinate granges issued. The total membership at the present time is not known because of the vast number that fail to pay annual dues, but it is estimated at considerably over 1,000,000.

Brazil Planning Preparedness in A Highly Practical Manner

No Longer a Theory With Big Southern Nation For She Has Gone In For Militarism.

By H. B. Robertson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 26.—By Mail—"Preparedness" as a theory, is no longer open to discussion in Brazil. The big southern Republic has gone in for "militarism", and she has gone in with enthusiasm.

Compulsory military service, established by a law passed by the congress of 1908, goes into effect December 1 this year, and if the results approach the predictions of the law's sponsors a million Brazilian men will be trained in arms and maneuvers within the next ten years. All able bodied men between the ages of 21 and 44 years of age are subject to the call to arms or liable to punishment as delinquents.

RUSSIAN SITUATION THE SAME

London, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—Bancourt-Su-Ancre fell today to the British in continuance of their drive against the German lines. It is north of Ancre Brook. The British captured 4,000 prisoners, many machine guns and much ammunition. General Haig also reported that the storming of Beaumont-Harnes has been completely successful. Nearly 8,000 prisoners have been taken in all according to the announcement today. The Germans have begun counter attacking one half mile north of Chieval on the south bank of Ancre Brook and fighting there is bitter. British reserves are rushing upon the immediate rear of the advance infantry for the first time since General Sackoe began his Russo-Romanian blow against Mackensen's extensive left wing which rests at Cernavoda on the Danube in the Douaumont region. The Russian war office reported the situation unchanged.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—A German war office statement this afternoon admitted the capture of Douaumont-Hamel and St. Pierre Division on the Somme front by British troops. Our stubborn resistance is responsible for less important losses the statement said.

Every woman suffrage state of the union showed a remarkable change in the presidential vote over that of eight years ago, according to the best figures for the 1916 contest. The eight suffrage states which have been admitted to the union since the Taft-Bryan contest showed remarkable reversal of form.

Washington, a bedrock Republican state, which went to woman suffrage in 1910 cut its Republican plurality from 52,000 in 1908 to less than 12,000 this year.

Oregon, giving women the suffrage in 1912, gave Taft a plurality of 24,000, and gave Hughes less than 8,000.

California, which let women vote

in 1911, has turned its Republican plurality of 86,000 to a Democratic plurality of 3,000 or more.

Nevada, giving suffrage in 1914, increased its Democratic plurality from 500 to 5,000.

Idaho, one of the old suffrage states having gone in in 1896, turned a Republican plurality of 20,000 into a Democratic plurality of 15,000 or more.

Montana, becoming a woman suffrage state in 1914, made the most remarkable change of all, turning a Republican plurality of about 3,000 into a Democratic plurality of 35,000 or more.

Wyoming, a suffrage state in 1890,

changed from 6,000 Republican to 4,000 Democratic in a total vote of a little over 40,000.

Utah, the home of Reed Smoot, of the old guard, which gave women the suffrage in 1870, also showed a remarkable change, turning a Republican plurality of about 19,000 to a Democratic plurality of 22,000.

Arizona, becoming a suffrage state in 1912, gave a Democratic plurality of less than 2,000 five years ago, and a Democratic plurality of 7,000 this year.

Colorado, also another old suffrage state, having granted women the vote in 1893, made a most remarkable change. The Democratic plurality in 1908 was less than 3,000, but this year it is about 62,000.

Kansas, the home of the staunch Republican, where women got the vote in 1912, gave Taft a plurality of 36,000; she gave Wilson a plurality of 36,000.

In Illinois, where a million men voted in 1908, they gave the Republican candidate a plurality of 224,000; when a half million women were added, the Democratic candidate was beaten in 1916 by 165,000. If the women there had voted as did the men in 1908 and the men had also done the same, Mr. Hughes would have carried the state by about 340,000.

WILSON VICTORY DIDN'T ENTHUSE DUBOIS DEMS

CLEARFIELD DELEGATION OVER

The DuBois Courier ridicules the big celebration of the DuBois Democrats in the following article. A good sized crowd of Clearfield gentlemen went over the mountain to the busy third rate, (beg pardon, we mean class) city but they were all too proud to parade. Mulligan Leary was not there so there was no one not too proud to fight and come just naturally couldn't parade(?) Even Connolly, whose spirit is always buoyant and exuberant is very much depressed this morning.

"When is the parade going to come along," was the question asked last evening and even telephoned into this office. Reference was made to the promised Democratic celebration and was asked after three Ford's (including W. R.) a donkey, two bands, a drum corps, a float and about 100 youngsters had gone over the streets although it was hard for people to reach it that it was over so soon. It somewhat resembled the Hughes victory on Tuesday—did not last long.

We have not been informed officially just what was the matter, and pending the official count we refuse to make any estimate of the number in line. It was Democratic all right, because a well known citizen of DuBois stated afterward that he recognized Can Allen, John Rogers, and John Pentz, but he did not know the fourth man in the parade.

The announcement of the parade drew a large crowd to the main streets last evening and thousands of people crowded along the principal thoroughfares to watch the big pageantry. They experienced no difficulty in seeing it all, but owing to the fact that there were not sufficient in line to string up the banners, the inscriptions flashed by almost too rapidly to have them all read.

There was plenty of red fire, lots of racket, good band music and excitement for the youngsters and if the parade did not accomplish anything else it furnished the younger population with some wholesome amusement. And anyone who promotes the happiness of the youngsters of the community is deserving of things."

TOOK IN THE PARADE AT DUBOIS.

The following Clearfield Democrats attended the jollification parade at DuBois last night: Sheriff Ira McCloskey, D. B. McCarty, J. D. Connolly, H. D. Healey, Andrew Plutkowski, W. W. Waple, T. B. Reilly, W. J. Camper, John Bailey, Squire James Mulligan, John E. Toot, P. J. McGovern, Ray Fullington, Vincent Sharp, Wesley Beatty and many others. They made the trip over the mountains in automobiles and had a slippery sliding time getting back.

MURDER RESULT OF A TRIVIAL QUARREL

Trouble All Started Over Chickens Going to Neighbor's and Failing to Return

WOMAN MURDERED SPENCELY

Lindsay, Ont. Nov. 14.—As a result of a tragedy growing out of a trivial quarrel between neighboring families, Mrs. May Davis, a comely young married woman, is to be tried on a charge of first degree murder at the fall assizes which convened here today. Mrs. Davis is charged with killing Fred Spenceley in her home at Kinmount on Sept. 6 last.

The Davis and Spenceley families occupied neighboring houses at Kinmount. The trouble between the two families was of long standing. It was said that Spenceley's hens would go over into the Davis yard and never return. Then Spenceley's barn was burned several years ago. Mrs. Davis had, according to Mrs. Spenceley's allegation, previously made threats to burn the structure. Finally the trouble reached such a stage that both Davis and Spenceley were bound over to keep the peace. The difficulties were further complicated by Mrs. Spenceley accusing Mrs. Davis of being unduly intimate with Mr. Spenceley. On the day of the tragedy Spenceley visited the Davis home to talk over matters. Mrs. Spenceley heard a shot and rushing from her own home saw Mrs. Davis with a rifle in her hand and standing over Spenceley's prostrate body.

HEAVY FINES ARE IMPOSED

Amsterdam, Nov. 14.—(By United Press)—Thirty thousand Belgians from Antwerp alone have been forced to leave their homes and work in German industrial plants, according to the issue of the Echebelge reaching here today. Many more laborers have come from Belgium since the over run of the German hordes after the outbreak of the war. A statement of the wreckage of homes, depredation by the Germans and the three decrees by the Teutonic government in an edict has been issued by Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium. According to the Cardinal a heavy fine for a term in prison is imposed if the Belgians refuse to work in German plants. A person not authorized by the Germans who gives work to another is liable to a heavy fine. The German military authorities are empowered to take all unemployed persons and force them to work.

Navy Plays Army in New York On Saturday, November 25th

Navy Has Not Scored Touchdown On Army Since Ben Douglass Fell Across Line in 1907.

By Hamilton

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Nov. 14.—When the Army and Navy football teams go into action for their annual meeting at the Polo Grounds on Nov. 25, there will be a goal besides victory for which the Navy probably will play a hard as for victory. Victory can come by drop-kicks, place-kicks, or safeties, but a touchdown is a touchdown, and the Navy hasn't put over one of that kind of scores on the Army since 1907 when Capt. Ben Douglass had the pleasure of falling over the Army goal line. The middie have a stronger scoring team this year than has represented the Annapolis school for some time, so it is reasonable to believe they will be able to put a dent in the Cadets' goal. They were equal to the task of tipping a close score against the powerful Pittsburg eleven, and with this to go on it is hard to see how the army will be able to hold them entirely free from a touchdown.

Many a football star has had a chance to plant a football between the Army goal posts for the Navy since Douglass laid over that touchdown, but four classes have ambled their way through the school and out into their duties aboard Uncle Sam's battleships without seeing the Navy teams accomplish that touchdown.

The cup of joy runneth over—for the Democrats only.

DuBois was no place for a preacher's son last night.

When the milk producers organize it looks like ten cent milk for Clearfield.

Postmasters are again assured of their jobs for four years more.

At least one Democrat in Clearfield proved that he was not too proud to fight.

Hughes and Wilcox have the spirit of Captain Lawrence. (Don't give up the ship.)

Now that foolish election bets are paid men will pay more attention to paying their honest debts.

It's a safe bet that Vance McCormick can have the Democratic nomination for Governor if he wants it.

Washington predicts Roosevelt and Bryan will lead their respective parties four years hence. Experience ought to count for something.

A Democrat remarked to us on Tuesday night that he would not go home until the last dog died. The last dog died but he came to life again about 1 A. M. on Wednesday morning and at the present writing is some "dorg."

PLAIN TRUTH.

We are indebted to the Mahaffey Times for the following articles which are true in the newspaper business all over this state:

"Several weeks ago the Times sent notices to delinquent subscribers informing them that it was necessary for them to pay up, if they failed to do this, we would place the account into the hands of the proper authorities for collection. Some did not heed the warning, the result was their accounts were handed over for collection. The collectors have sent out notices to these subscribers and we have received a few letters along the following lines.

Dear Sirs:

You have handed my name to the collector. Now I only ordered the paper for one year and after that year was up you did not stop it and I am not going to pay for it, so don't send the paper to me any longer.

Very truly yours,

Dis Honest.

In reply to this statement, we wish to inform the subscribers who are laboring under that delusion, seventy-five per cent. of our subscribers would consider it as an insult if we were to discontinue their paper at the expiration of the time.

They would accuse us of not wanting to trust them, swear they would never take the paper again and get into a very much agitated frame of mind. You can stop the paper if you wish but pay for what you have already received and benefitted by.

DOES FIRE PREVENTION PREVENT?

The recent widespread celebration of Fire Prevention Day (October 9th) throughout the United States gives point to the query as to whether fire prevention is really making good in actual results.

Here is a part of the answer. New York City, in 1915, had 1,010 fewer fires than in 1914, and its aggregate losses showed a decrease of $2,460,793 from those of 1914. Its per capita loss was $1.06 or $.32 less than was known before; its loss per fire was $140.58 less than the lowest previous record. These results are generally attributed to new York's fire prevention work.

Chicago has a Bureau of Fire Prevention and Public Safety with extensive activities. Translated into figures it appears that Chicago, in 1915, enjoyed a decrease of 1238 in the number of fires and of $906,605 in total fire losses as compared with 1914.

The above, however, are a few of the bright spots and represent but the merest beginning. It must never be overlooked that fire prevention is still confronted by an enormous task. Momentary enthusiasm because of reductions effected in a few cities is somewhat dampened by the reflection that 1915 saw the enormous total of $39,591,227 in the single item of dwelling house fires in the United States. Of this amount, $6,322,813, or $17,323 per day, is directly traceable to defective chimneys and flues—a cause which could have been ascertained and corrected.

Fire Prevention does prevent, but it never will be really successful until the public takes a hand.

INDIVIDUALITY—A DYNAMIC CHARM.

How all of us admire individuality? And how all of us desire people to recognize it in us. Yet, unless we naturally have this endowment, we will find it most difficult to acquire.

Individuality, in reality, is a gift. We can, however, strive to attain a small portion of individuality by making certain things suggest us to our friends and acquaintances.

For instance, I never see a certain shade of blue without thinking of my friend, Ethel. She wears it very often and it has become her color. From her chiffon shirtwaists and evening dresses in winter to her linen garden frocks in summer, we find this blue predominating.

Her room is decorated and upholstered in a similar shade of ecru. Even her luncheon set is embroidered in tints of that color.

I am sure if you will think of your friends, you will, in a number of cases, connect certain things with certain people. This is one form of individuality suggested.

Some people are fortunate enough to possess a small amount of this wonderful endowment. Their homes are placed in vases and books arranged upon the library table.

While most original people are the possessors of individuality of habits, of expression and of thought, there is a wide difference in originality and individuality. The former is a definite equality. The latter is the more subtle in the way it affects one's impression of a person. Sometimes we are swayed by a person's characteristics without knowing why.

Try and cultivate an air of attractiveness. I know you will be glad when you find a suggestion of it in the response you evoke among your acquaintances. The secret of it is not so much in the WHAT you do, but in the HOW you do it.

I have said enough. During the next month or so just aim to cultivate an individuality, and see if you do not grow far more attractive in your nature than you have been before.

AUSTRALIA BACK IN THE RING.

Australia has re-appeared on the pugilistic map. The brilliant record of Les Darcy, the 21 year old middle weight, has shined the Antipodes back in the spotlight of the world's boxing affairs, after an absence of many years.

Now that Darcy has established himself as a world-beater, the folks "down under" have another name to add to their already long list of boxing notables, which comprise about as clever a lot of boxers as ever fought on a boxing glove. The best out over here when he took the coat of the Kangaroo boxers, from Peter Jackson, the heavyweight, down to young Griffo, featherweight, fought many battles in this country, and veteran followers of the ring will ever remember the brilliant bouts staged by some of the Antipodeans.

There was Jackson, the ebony-hued gladiator, of whom it was said he could defeat any heavyweight in the world. And only a little way behind the big negro were Frank Slavin and Hall and Dan Creedon. Fitzsimmons after cleaning up all the middleweights, went out of his weight class and defeated Jim Corbett for the heavy-weight crown. While Hall and Creedon didn't measure up to Fitz as a fighter both carried the goods and held long records of exciting good clashes.

The middleweight division was represented by Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim playing the "bright lights" he would have become king of both the Joe Goddard, also hailing from Australia.

Tom Tracy, George Dawson and Jim Burgess were the best of the Australian welters. Headed the boxer world has ever known. Whether or not he was entitled to this been Jimmy Chabig, Eddie McGourty, distinction, it is indisputable. But Frank Looney, Gus Christie and Griffo had it on all the featherweights. It must be admitted of this day. Had he refrained from that scrapper who can trim that feather and lightweights.

Other Kangaroo boxers who won praise for their sterling ability as fighters in this country were Tom Leeds, Billy McCarthy, Billy Smith, Arthur Walker, Tom Williams, Tim Haggerty, Otto Gripps, Billy Murphy and Hook Kyes.

With the passing of Fitzsimmons and Young Griffo, Australia dropped out of the big league of the champion boxers. An attempt at a "come-back" was made when they sent over Bill Sadlers, after he had made quite a reputation as a knockout artist at as clever a lot of boxers as ever fought on a boxing glove. The best out over here when he took the coat of the Kangaroo boxers, from Peter Jackson, the heavyweight, down to young Griffo, featherweight, fought many battles in this country, and veteran followers of the ring will ever remember the brilliant bouts staged by some of the Antipodeans.

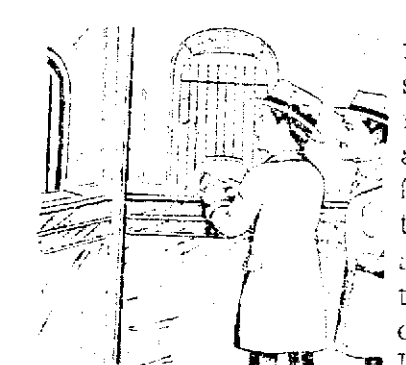

Squired quick finish as a champion-ship contender happened some ten years ago. Since then American boxers have been going to Australia to show their wares, instead of the Australians coming here.

Whether America will have an opportunity to see Darcy at a very early date is problematical. It is said that he is headed for the army. If this is true there is a big chance that he may never be seen in the ring over here. Followers of boxing in this country have long had a desire to see the clever Australian and they will be greatly disappointed if circumstances prevent him from coming to the United States.

Darcy is a native of Australia and has just passed his twenty-first year. Up to two years ago he was apprenticed as a blacksmith. He made his ring debut in 1912 when he stopped Dave Depens in nine rounds. Later in the same year he scored his first knockout, Jimmie Barnes being the victim.

The past three years Darcy has been putting 'em away just about as fast as they face him. Among the most prominent of his victims have been Jimmy Chabig, Eddie McGourty, But Frank Looney, Gus Christie and Griffo had it on all the featherweights. It must be admitted of this day. Had he refrained from that scrapper who can trim that feather and lightweights.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less Meat Also take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for five days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

thing choice in a pugilistic way. Jeff Smith and Fritz Holland won decisions over Darcy, but in later bouts both were defeated decisively by the Australian.

ANCHOR YOUR FARM

The Federal Geological Survey is authority for the statement that an average of ninety-five tons of soil and loose rock are washed into the ocean every year from every square mile of territory in the United States. The stupendous amount of land washed may be realized when it is taken into consideration that there are over 3,000,000 square miles of land in this country. This loss to the American farmer is gigantic as it is obvious that the soil carried away is top soil—the richest in plantfood and humus.

VALUE AND RESULTS

I have yet to hear of an advertiser who has persistently, judiciously, and intelligently advertised for any considerable length of time, and has supported that advertising in the proper conduct of his business in other directions, who has not succeeded. Loss through advertising is largely due to inadequate support, indifference or useless extravagance. Your business, like your soil, must not be robbed. It is a law of nature that where we receive much, we must give something in return. Your soil will wear out if you do not fertilize and properly care for it. Your business will run down if you do not advertise and keep it in a healthy state of cultivation. It is activity that causes growth and development; in fact, it is activity that makes us strong. An active advertising campaign will make your business healthy and strong.—Frank B. White, Managing Editor, Agricultural Publishers' Association.

THE WORK OF THE BUREAU OF SOILS.

"The chief activities of the Bureau of Soils of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are the soil survey, fertilizer investigations, and studies in soil physics and soil chemistry," says Milton Whitney, Chief of the Bureau of Soils, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"The influence of soils on topography on agriculture is given, and the general type and methods of farming are described, including the equipment used, the cultivation given the various crops, the crop rotation practiced and the fertilizers applied. The size of the farms and the value of farm land given, and references made to such subjects as insect and animal."

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

MORE SHEEP FOR PENNSYLVANIA.

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Extension Service has adopted a definite program for increasing the sheep industry of the State. Extension representatives in 36 counties, with the co-operation of county farm bureaus, live stock associations, etc., will make a sheep survey in their counties, gathering statistics as to the number of flocks, the number of sheep in each flock, the breed, costs of maintenance, prices obtained for products sold, and profits. Articles will then be prepared giving the specific facts and figures relative to the industry in each county, and also concerning particular farms. Auto excursions will then be made to farms where special conditions will be studied. This program will aid materially in getting the sheep growers together for co-operative purposes in marketing both mutton and wool. It seems to be an excellent plan.

MAKING MONEY ON A SMALL FARM

Fifteen years ago George W. Shreiner of Singletown, Pennsylvania, inherited a worn-out 50-acre farm. Fences were neglected and down, the buildings were tumbling and the yields were extremely low. Fields have been doubled, good profits annually have been obtained and the farm made more valuable than ever before, by attention on the part of Mr. Shreiner to crop rotation, soil fertility and marketing. A new barn, remodeled outbuildings, improved house cement walks and new fences are among the results.

ENRICH THE SOIL.

"Enrich the soil to feed animals, rather than feed animals to enrich the soil," is the advice given by the Extension Division of Clemson College which points out the four steps necessary for increasing the fertility of the soil. The first step includes deep fall plowing, drainage, better seed-beds, and seeds, and more frequent shallow cultivation. Winter cover crops to be turned under in the spring are included in the second step. Diversification and rotation of crops is the third and the production of livestock the fourth step.

It will be noted that to "enrich the soil" is the first consideration in this excellent advice. A rich soil means large capacity for livestock production.

FARM PRODUCTS STILL SHOW RAPID INCREASE.

Prices of farm products continue to rise. Producers were being paid 27.6 per cent more on October 1 than a year ago, the Department of Agriculture announced. October 11, in its monthly statement of the level of prices on principal crops. That level increased 1.3 per cent during September compared with a decrease of about 2 per cent during that month in the last eight years. October 1, two years ago prices were 19.9 per cent lower than on that date this year and the average for the last eight years on October 1 was 23.8 per cent lower.—Farmers Home Journal.

COMPETITION FOR DEWEY HANES.

Dewey Hanes, champion corn grower of Ohio, is this year finding stiff competition in his own family, as his two brothers are also in the corn growing contest and are each hoping to secure the first prize as champion of the state. Dewey is confident, however, that he will again be state champion, although he is not sure that his 1916 yield will equal that of last year when he raised 153.4 bushels of corn on one acre.

CHAPTER 3 of "LIBERTY"

At the Opera House tomorrow Evening.

Liberty Horton, the American heiress, having escaped her abductors who are led by Lopez, rides toward the town of Discovery to warn the Americans there of the plot of the insurgents to attack the place. Lopez sends out several rebels who shoot and wound her, but the coming of some American soldiers from the camp frighten them away. She is placed in a hospital tent and when she recovers consciousness tells the American soldiers that the rebel chieftain, Alvirra, has 1,000 insurgents under his command and intends to attack the town of Discovery at once. A band of Texas Rangers give battle to the Lopez band and rout them. The military camp officers then try an operator at Discovery, but he fails to receive the warning. Alvirra and many thrilling scenes of carnage ensue, marked by the burning of houses of Americans, the wounding and slaying of many of the people there; but while the battle between the rebels and citizens is raging, the timely arrival of a large detachment of American soldiers results in the routing of the insurgents; they flee pell mell for their lives. Lopez, finally coming to a place of safety in his flight, be- trays his fellow bandits for their failure to withstand the attacks of the rangers. Liberty, saving recovered somewhat, is able to ride with an armed escort, to her father's hacienda, and there she seeks recreation during her recovery. Major Winston, one of the guardians of Liberty, gambles heavily and gives notes of his indebtedness of the total of $20,000. Jose Leon, the other Guardian of Liberty, has a son, Manuel, who desires to wed Liberty, and so the father and the son plot to use the gambling notes against Winston to try to force him to agree to the prospective marriage of Liberty and Manuel. Liberty, whose sweetheart is an Amer. Army officer, Captain Rutledge, confers with him, and they pledge affection to each other. Jose taunts Major Winston about his betrayal of his duty as a guardian in losing money belonging to Liberty, but the latter refuses to comply to Jose's demands.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

What steps are necessary in vulcanizing casings? Must the casing always be removed from the wheel?

For vulcanizing casing cuts it is not always necessary to remove the tire from the wheel. Apply from one to three layers of cement, allowing each to dry. Fill the hole not quite level with the surface with scraps of Para rubber. The best results are obtained when casing repairs are slightly concave. If filled too full the rubber will expand and flow over on to the unpunctured surface in a thin film that will soon peel up and cause trouble. Moreover, the protruding plug will receive more than its share of hammering and will undoubtedly split open. Be sure when mending a sand pocket to stop the hole where the dirt entered, as it may be a foot away from the sand pocket.

After preparing the tube or casing and while waiting for it to dry screw the handle firmly into the vulcanizer; then, if mending a tube, stand the vulcanizer vertically on a bench, running board or floor and remove the casing chain and bolts from the tube plate. When repuncturing a casing turn the swivel plate so that the projection with the round hole is on the same side of vulcanizer as the handle. Clamp the plate in this position so that it cannot revolve and insert one chain bolt through round hole and attach thumb nut. Then take the vulcanizer in the left hand, place the curved side against the repair, using waxed paper between the vulcanizer and the repair, bring the chain around the felloe and hook the other bolt into the forked projection on the other side of the plate and then screw the vulcanizer firmly but not too tightly on the tire.

After the vulcanizer is in position for action remove the cylindrical lamp and, holding it at an angle of about forty-five degrees, pour the fuel on to it from the brass measure. If you use alcohol get the correct amount by plunging your finger over the lower hole and filling the measure until the fuel runs out of the upper hole. Insert the lamp into the vulcanizer and ignite at the hole just above the lamp. The vulcanizer operates most satisfactorily, of course, if sheltered from drafts.

In exceptional cases, for instance, when vulcanizing a very deep casing cut or a tire that is at freezing temperature, a slightly additional amount of fuel, probably not over one-eighth inch, may be used to compensate for the extra heat required to bring the tire to normal temperature. But after a few operations your experience will make you the best judge as to quantity. On the other hand, when making several repairs in succession cool the vulcanizer after each one by immersing in water, and should the continued use of low grade fuel produce a sufficient deposit of soot in the vulcanizer to interfere with the draft clean the fuel.

Whatever has been done to the tire, whether in the garage or on the road, it will be necessary after the job has been completed to inflate it once more, and do not fall into the habit of a vast number of motorists of simply blowing it up and letting it go at that. Careless guesswork concerning the right amount of air in a tire is the cause of many troubles. Too little air in a tire causes rim cutting, breaking of the side walls, fabric separation and ruin for any make of pneumatic tire. Too much air makes the riding rough and thus defeats the very purpose of the pneumatic tire. The tire should always "give" a little under a load, but mere inspection or guesswork is not a reliable inflation test. Carry a pressure gauge and when inflating do so to the indicated number of pounds, or use a tire caliper, which gives you the correct inflation for any tire.

What would the crank shaft of an ordinary eight cylinder engine look like if all the cylinders were put in line? Is there any angle other than 180 degrees between the different crank pins?

The simplest way would be to have all the cranks in the same plane just like two four-cylinder crank shafts together. An arrangement with the cranks at ninety degrees would, however, be possible. The easiest way to explain it is to say that with eight cylinders in line you have the equivalent of two four-cylinder engines coupled together, and you can regard the first four cylinders as one engine and the second four as the other, or you can regard cylinders Nos. 1, 3, 5 and 7 as one four-cylinder engine and 2, 4, 6 and 8 as the other.

What is the best method of removing tar or tarry from my car? I recently had to drive twice a day for two weeks over a road freshly covered with it. The chassis is absolutely covered and the body not much better.

Soap and water used promptly will generally remove tar or tarry. It can also be softened by the application of butter or oleomargarine without damage to the varnish.

Another good solvent is cocoon butter, which is used in the theatrical profession for removing grease paint. This can be purchased in some drug stores and is a harmless solvent for all kinds of oil and grease as well as tar.

My car has always used too much cylinder oil. I recently had nonleaking packing rings applied, one in each piston, and a new set of rings applied, although the old ones were good and the cylinders are not worn a particle and the tool marks not defaced.

have tried various kinds of oil, but get no results. Can you suggest something that will prevent the oil from getting by the packing rings and fouling the spark plugs and the valves?

It is possible that the cylinders have been worn out of round or that the pistons are a bad fit in the cylinders. A good mechanic should be able to micrometer the pistons and cylinders and determine whether or not this is the trouble. If the cylinders are in good shape and the pistons are a sloppy fit the remedy is to fit oversize pistons. If the cylinders are scored to such an extent that the leakage you describe occurs the only remedy is re-boring of the cylinders and fitting of new pistons.

Can you give me a list of things which might cause a knock in a motor?

Worn crank shaft bearings, worn connecting rod bearings, worn wrist pin bearings, pistons loose in the cylinders, broken piston pins, preignition caused by carbon deposits in cylinder head, the spark advanced too far, too rich a mixture, scored cylinders or loose motor supports.

My car has poor compression on all but one cylinder when cold, but does not show so much difference when hot. I have had the head off and ground the valves. I think it is in the gasket joint, as the old gasket showed black carbon streaks, especially between the cylinders. It has not the power it should have and has run only 2,200 miles. Would it help to put in two gaskets and shellac all of their sides or is there anything else that will make it hold?

Since the old gasket shows carbon streaks it is quite likely that you are right in your surmise that the car is losing power due to leakage. The new gaskets will shellac and may remedy the trouble; also, go over the intake manifold connections very carefully and be sure that there are no air leaks around these.

Please advise me as to the use of naphthalene or naphthalene with flakes in gasoline for increasing mileage and as a carbon remover. It has been recommended to use a teaspoonful to every five gallons of gasoline, and I am told that this substance is put up under many names and sold for that purpose. Please advise me as to its quality, and how does it work?

The use of naphthalene or, as it is commonly known, camphor, is not recommended in gasoline. As a matter of fact it will deposit as much carbon as it will remove and will result in a sooted engine. A simple experiment which will readily show you the carbon forming tendencies of camphor may be performed by simply holding a camphor or moth ball over an open flame. The carbon will leave the camphor in long, stringlike formations.

I understand that denatured alcohol and wood alcohol both mix completely with water. With a solution of 25 per cent alcohol and 75 per cent water in evaporating remain the same solution or will the alcohol evaporate more rapidly than the water so that the solution will have a smaller percentage of alcohol in it after about one-fourth of it has evaporated?

The alcohol will be almost entirely evaporated before the water diminishes appreciably, therefore after 25 per cent of your solution has evaporated what remains is almost entirely water, and the solution must be replenished with alcohol to give the desired effect.
